Reed Island, Guadua Roots, The Overlook

A contact sheet of the current experience at Day 1, Day 4, Day 7 and the morning after each world is walked, before and after this pass. Captured from the app running locally at iPhone width (390 pt). Changes are uncommitted in the app checkout.

WEEK 3 · BUILD · KEEPING

Reed Island

A still lilac lake at morning; an island of reed built up a little each day, dusk and a lit lantern at the end.

WEEK 4 · GROW · GROWING

Guadua Roots

Now the far shore of that lake: a cut-away of warm soil under a pale sky, roots spreading where nobody sees them.

WEEK 5 · ASCEND · ENOUGH

The Overlook

Up on the plateau, in straw grass: the cloud below thins and the four earlier worlds appear in the valley.

WEEK 3 · BUILD · KEEPING

Reed Island

A still lilac lake at morning; an island of reed built up a little each day, dusk and a lit lantern at the end.

FINISHED

- The island visibly builds every day: raft, anchor pole, leaning reeds, woven edge, house, watch post, lantern.
- Day 7 turns to dusk and the reed boat comes home. The sewn card is one of the strongest in the path.

PLACEHOLDER

- Day 1 morning on Today was an empty lake: the raft waiting to be built was graphite pencil on dark water, invisible.
- The same on later mornings for anything over water (the pole, the reeds, the boat).

LOST CONTINUITY

- Nothing is carried in from Week 2 (Celestial Night). Its red ties and boat had nowhere to go next.

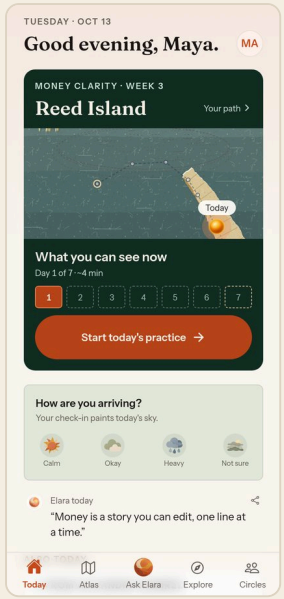

CHANGED IN THIS PASS

- Pencil drawn over the lake is chalk now, so tomorrow's piece reads on Today and in practice (raft, pole, reeds, boat).
- The boat is a shared piece, so Week 4 can find the same boat on its bank.

WEEK 4 · GROW · GROWING

Guadua Roots

Now the far shore of that lake: a cut-away of warm soil under a pale sky, roots spreading where nobody sees them.

FINISHED

- The root network spreads day by day; the shoot breaks the surface on Day 4; beetle, rain, then the grove closes overhead.

PLACEHOLDER

- Days 1 to 3 on Today were bands of soil only. The seed, Day 1's landmark, sat on the picture's top edge in graphite on dark soil.
- Day 7 morning: seven stems and 26 leaves of dashed pencil filled the sky and the practice header.
- Atlas: the morning after Reed Island was finished, Money Clarity was an empty paper square on the map, with only the orb.

LOST CONTINUITY

- A hard cut from the lilac lake to brown soil: no sky, no shore, nothing from Reed Island.

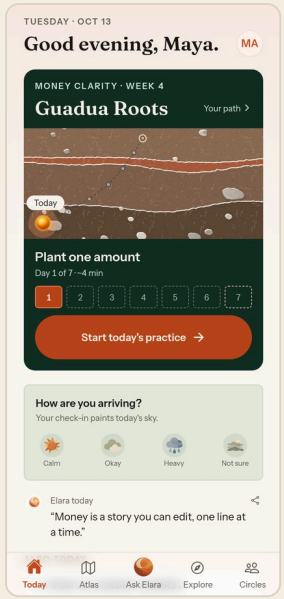

CHANGED IN THIS PASS

- Reed Island's lilac mountains stand low on the horizon; the lake's edge and the reed boat from Week 3's last day lie at the bank.
- A reed tied in the island's red marks where the seed goes in. It stays beside the grown guadua on Day 7.
- Her thread is re-routed: down into the roots on Days 2 and 3, up with the shoot on Day 4, to the foot of the grove. Today's picture now holds the bank, the reed and the seed from the first morning, and the shoot on Day 4.
- The seed's pencil is chalk; the beetle moved up so Day 5's picture holds it; Day 7's pencil is three stems and no leaves.

WEEK 5 · ASCEND · ENOUGH

The Overlook

Up on the plateau, in straw grass: the cloud below thins and the four earlier worlds appear in the valley.

FINISHED

- The four earlier worlds appear as miniatures and her thread joins them on Day 6.
- When all five are walked, the Area shows the five places side by side with one line: "You have a wider view of your money now."

PLACEHOLDER

- Days 1 and 2 on Today: dry grass under cloud and a cut tree trunk. Nothing near her stop to look at.

LOST CONTINUITY

- The miniatures tie back, but she arrives empty-handed from Week 4.

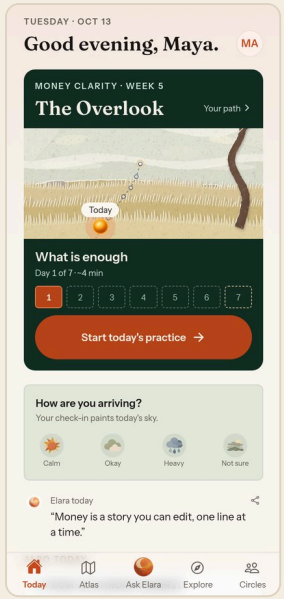

CHANGED IN THIS PASS

- Her guadua staff from Week 4, tied in Reed Island's red, stands in the grass at the edge from the first morning, by her stop.

What Atlas shows between two worlds

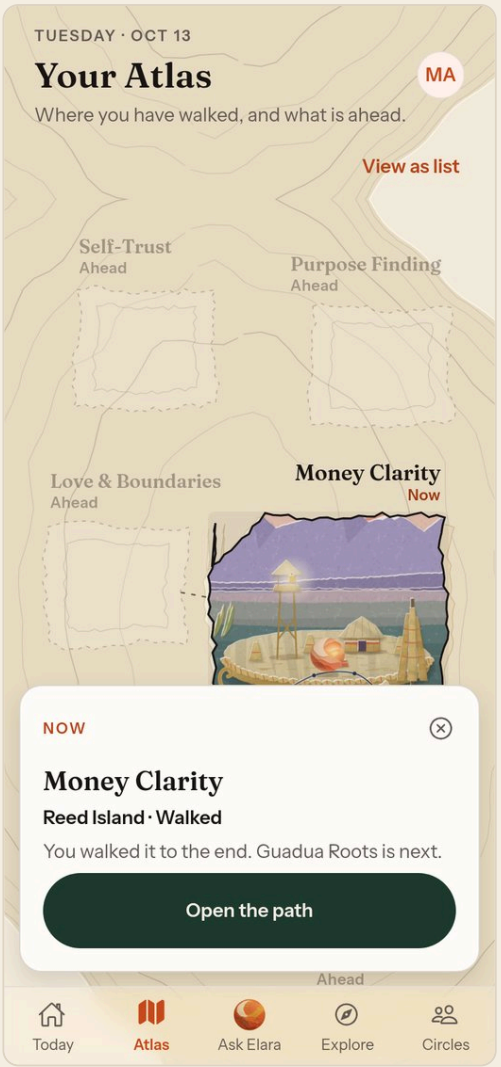

The morning after Reed Island is finished, before Guadua Roots opens.

Before: an empty paper square with only the orb

After: Reed Island, sewn shut

After: its sheet names what is next

Remaining gaps

- Week 2 to 3: Reed Island still opens with nothing carried from Celestial Night.
- The practice screen's header strip shows mostly sky in these worlds. Framing the art lower is a design call, because the question sheet covers the lower half.
- The week close was not walked live; the week-turn pages are the same art rendered from the engine.
- Today's "You walked Reed Island" card names the next world in text only, with no picture of it.
- No new motion was added, so Reduce Motion behaves as before.
- Separate from this pass: on a 320 × 568 phone, "Start today's practice" still sits partly under the tab bar.

CHECKS

545 mobile unit tests pass, typecheck clean, lint 0 errors. Of 30 worlds, only these three render differently.
