Your life first. One useful idea a day.

V4.1 · Seven complete sessions to review with María and Alejandra.

A correction of V4 after a text review. It keeps V4's approach: we start from what she recognises in her own life, and other people's stories and the sums are optional support. It adds an optional check after each idea.

THE RHYTHM

1. Recognise your situation. 2. Learn an idea and, if you like, check it. 3. Choose something useful. 4. Take it with you if you want.

Seven-day route

1. Does it arrive before you have to pay?
2. What would you like your money to make possible? CHANGED
3. Before you say yes
4. I pay, but what's going down?
5. Did your spending change, or the price?
6. When a promise touches a need
7. What would be useful to find again?

How to read it

Each session takes two review pages and four content moments; this doesn't claim they are four native steps. Options and their replies are written in full. Only the tapped option's reply is shown. Main text readable; Ale's optional audio carries the same teaching and is not recorded yet. There is no test, score or AI-generated reply. NEW and CHANGED tags mark what differs from V4.

Proposal to test; the Spanish is pending review by María and Alejandra. Estimated length: 3–5 minutes, to be measured. The US$ examples are fictional.

What changed from V4 to V4.1

Six changes, all tagged on each day's pages. The rules, the rhythm, the examples, "Yesterday you saw" and saving are unchanged.

1. Optional check on days 1 to 6

After the idea, a short question with three options and fixed replies; one is "Not sure, show me". No score, nothing blocked. In V4 nothing showed her whether she had understood the idea.

2. Day 1: a path for "I don't have enough"

The reply points to step 3; step 3 asks "What would help you today?" and adds "Write down how much is missing, without solving it today"; the note accepts "I'm short… for…"; "You take away" includes it. In V4 every step-3 option was about dates.

3. Day 2: the title has a referent

"What would you like your money to make possible?" instead of "…that money…", which appears on its own on the Atlas home with no sentence before it.

4. Day 7: no assumptions, no pilot language

"This week we looked at six ideas…" instead of "This week you separated…", which assumes she did every day. "Thank you for giving yourself this time this week" instead of "Thank you for trying this week".

5. Clearer text

Day 1: "two days after the electricity bill". Day 3: "set a limit". Day 4: a true minus sign (−). Day 6: five options instead of six ("recognise warning signs" moves into "I'd rather skip") and an idea in shorter sentences. Day 7: a shorter idea.

6. Support at sensitive moments

Day 3: one line for anyone who feels pressure or control over her money. Day 6: "official help in your country" stays generic until organisations are verified for each country.

To decide with María

- Day 3's support line: keep, change or remove?
- Which organisations to name on day 6 for Colombia, Mexico and the group's other countries? They must be verified against official sources before they are written in.
- Day 1: the check uses «alquiler», like V4's example. «Alquiler» or «arriendo» for this group?
- The six checks are new text: do they help, or do they feel like a test?

DAY 1 / 7 · 1-2

Does it arrive before you have to pay?

Tell a timing problem apart from money that isn’t enough.

1 / START WITH YOU

Has it happened to you that you know you’ll be paid, but a bill due earlier still worries you?

Yes, I don’t know when I’ll be paid

If tapped: The date is still to be confirmed. Today you can prepare a question without opening your accounts.

I get paid after a bill is due

If tapped: That gap deserves attention. Let’s look at what arrives first, without assuming you can move the dates.

Even when I’m paid, it isn’t enough CHANGED

If tapped: Then it isn’t only a timing problem. Looking at dates can clarify the shortfall, but it doesn’t create money. In step 3 you can write down how much is missing, without solving it today.

Today I’d rather not look at my money

If tapped: You can keep the general idea and the optional example. You don’t need to share any figures.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea without choosing a situation”.

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

Expected income and available income are different things. For a payment coming up, what matters is which money will be available before the due date. If there’s still a gap even after adding everything coming in, there’s an overall shortfall; if the money arrives later, there’s also a timing gap. Both can happen at once.

Before counting future money, confirm when it arrives.

CHECK THE IDEA · OPTIONAL NEW

You’re paid on the 20th and the rent is due on the 15th. Can you count on that pay for the rent?

No: it arrives after the due date. · expected answer

If tapped: Exactly. On the 15th that money isn’t in your account yet, so it doesn’t cover that payment.

Yes, because I know I’ll be paid.

If tapped: Knowing it will come doesn’t make it available on the 15th. What counts is the day it’s in your account.

Not sure, show me.

If tapped: Put the dates in order: rent on the 15th, pay on the 20th. The pay arrives later, so it doesn’t cover that payment.

Optional and not scored. Only the tapped option’s reply is shown, and she can change option. “Not sure, show me” explains without marking a mistake. She can also carry on without answering.

Does it arrive before you have to pay?

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

What would help you today? CHANGED

Prepare a question about my pay

If tapped: You can use: “What day will the money be available in my account?”. You don’t have to send it now.

Find the payment that’s due first

If tapped: Think only about the next due date. Then compare it with the confirmed pay date; if a date is missing, that’s the information still pending.

Write down how much is missing, without solving it today NEW

If tapped: You can write just the payment and the difference. Knowing how much is missing is information, not a failure. You don’t have to solve it today.

Understand it with an example

If tapped: Open the example below. You don’t need to do a sum on your own.

OPTIONAL NOTE

The date I want to confirm is… · If she chose “Write down how much is missing”: I’m short… for… CHANGED

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE AN EXAMPLE · OPTIONAL

Optional example: there’s US$300 available. Rent of US$180 goes out, then electricity of US$170 is due. Pay of US$200 arrives two days after the electricity bill. US$120 is left before electricity: that day you’re US$50 short. Later pay doesn’t cover an earlier due date. CHANGED

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

A question to confirm a date, what’s missing written down, or today’s rule. CHANGED

Before counting future money, confirm when it arrives.

If it helps, confirm a date before committing that money.

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Tomorrow: What would you like your money to make possible? CHANGED

DAY 2 / 7 · 1-2

What would you like your money to make possible? CHANGED

Give money a purpose and a date before choosing what to do with it.

Yesterday you saw: Before counting future money, confirm when it arrives.

1 / START WITH YOU

When you think about saving or investing, what matters most to you today?

Feeling less exposed to the unexpected

If tapped: A cushion can give you room. Let’s start with what you’d want it for, without asking you for an amount.

Learning to invest, even if I don’t start yet

If tapped: You can learn from now. First we’ll separate the money you’d need soon from the money you could leave longer.

I have a payment coming up that worries me

If tapped: That payment’s date changes the decision. You need to think about availability and what would happen if the value dropped.

I can’t set money aside right now

If tapped: You don’t need to save today to learn this difference. We won’t ask you for a savings goal.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea without choosing a situation”.

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

Saving is setting money aside to use later. Investing is putting money into something to seek a gain while accepting risks, including a loss. For a payment coming up, what matters is being able to reach the money and that it doesn’t depend on a rise. More time doesn’t remove the risk. Before comparing options, ask: what is it for, and when do I need it?

Money for a payment coming up shouldn’t depend on an investment going up.

CHECK THE IDEA · OPTIONAL NEW

You have money for a payment in a month. One option promises more, but its value can drop. What do you look at first?

Whether the money will be complete and available on that date. · expected answer

If tapped: Yes. For a payment coming up, the first thing is having the money that day. The possible gain comes after.

How much it has gone up lately.

If tapped: A past rise doesn’t guarantee what it will be worth in a month.

Not sure, show me.

If tapped: First: what is it for, and when do you need it? If it’s for a payment coming up, what matters is that it’s there that day, even if something drops.

Optional and not scored. Only the tapped option’s reply is shown, and she can change option. “Not sure, show me” explains without marking a mistake. She can also carry on without answering.

DAY 2 / 7 · 3-4

What would you like your money to make possible? CHANGED

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

Choose a question to take with you.

What do I want this money for, and by when?

If tapped: You can think about a payment, an emergency or a goal several years away. If you don’t know the date yet, leave it to be confirmed.

Can I take it out when I need it?

If tapped: Before choosing an option, check when you can take the money out and what restrictions or costs it has.

Today I only want to learn the difference

If tapped: Keep this: setting money aside and accepting risk to seek a gain are different decisions.

OPTIONAL NOTE

I’d want this money for… I’d need it by…

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE AN EXAMPLE · OPTIONAL

Optional example: you need US$300 to move in four weeks. If an investment drops, you might not have the US$300 that day. An earlier gain doesn’t guarantee the money for your move.

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

A question about purpose, timeframe or access to the money.

Money for a payment coming up shouldn’t depend on an investment going up.

If it helps, give an amount a what-for and a by-when, without choosing a product yet.

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Tomorrow: Before you say yes

DAY 3 / 7 · 1-2

Before you say yes

Prepare a reply that gives you time to decide.

Yesterday you saw: Money for a payment coming up shouldn’t depend on an investment going up.

1 / START WITH YOU

What could make you say yes to giving money before you know whether you can?

I worry about seeming selfish

If tapped: You can love someone and check what you can take on. Today you can practise a reply without sending it.

I already help every month and it’s hard to change

If tapped: A regular commitment can be reviewed too. We won’t decide for you how much to give.

I worry how the other person would react CHANGED

If tapped: You don’t need to rehearse or set a limit if that would make you feel unsafe. You can skip and think about what support you need. If someone pressures you or controls your money and you feel at risk, look for support from someone you trust or a helpline in your country.

This doesn’t happen to me; I want to learn a phrase

If tapped: You can practise a general reply and adapt it only if it’s ever useful.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea without choosing a situation”.

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

Wanting to help, being able to give an amount and deciding to give it are different questions. Look at which payments you need to cover before you’re paid again. That information shows consequences; it doesn’t measure how much you love someone. Asking for time can keep the decision open without promising money.

You can want to help and take time to see what you can take on.

CHECK THE IDEA · OPTIONAL NEW

Someone asks you for US$100 by tomorrow and you have payments this week. Which reply gives you time without promising money?

“I need to check my payments before I tell you an amount.” · expected answer

If tapped: Yes. It’s a complete reply: it doesn’t say no, and it doesn’t promise an amount yet.

“Yes, I’ll send it tomorrow.”

If tapped: That can be your decision. If you haven’t checked your payments yet, you’re committing the money before you know whether you can.

Not sure, show me.

If tapped: Look for the reply that doesn’t promise an amount yet: “I need to check my payments before I tell you an amount.”

Optional and not scored. Only the tapped option’s reply is shown, and she can change option. “Not sure, show me” explains without marking a mistake. She can also carry on without answering.

DAY 3 / 7 · 3-4

Before you say yes

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

Which reply would you like to rehearse?

I need time to check my payments

If tapped: Phrase to edit: “I need to check my payments before I tell you an amount”.

I want to review the help I give each month

If tapped: Phrase to edit: “I want to check what amount I can keep up before committing for next month”.

I don’t want to prepare a reply today

If tapped: You can finish with the rule. You don’t have to have a conversation or explain why you’re skipping.

OPTIONAL NOTE

My phrase to rehearse...

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE AN EXAMPLE · OPTIONAL

Optional example: you have US$200 and payments of US$150 before your next pay. Giving US$100 would leave US$100 for those payments: you’d be US$50 short. This shows a consequence; it doesn’t decide how much you should offer.

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

A phrase you’ve confirmed, or just the rule.

You can want to help and take time to see what you can take on.

If it helps and you feel safe, keep your phrase handy. You don’t have to send it.

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Tomorrow: I pay, but what’s going down?

DAY 4 / 7 · 1-2

I pay, but what’s going down?

Understand which part of a payment reduces what you owe.

Yesterday you saw: You can want to help and take time to see what you can take on.

1 / START WITH YOU

If you’ve ever paid a debt and felt it barely went down, what would you like to understand?

Why it goes down less than I pay

If tapped: An interest charge can explain part of the difference. Let’s separate the movements without assuming what happened in your account.

What it means to be charged interest

If tapped: It’s the cost of using borrowed money. We’ll see how a charge is added to the balance.

What to look at in my statement

If tapped: You can look for the previous balance, charges, payments and new balance. You don’t need to upload the document.

I don’t have debt or I’d rather not use mine

If tapped: You can learn with a short explanation. The numerical example is optional.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea without choosing a situation”.

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

The balance is what you owe on a date. Interest and other charges can increase it; payments reduce it. So paying an amount doesn’t always reduce the debt by that same amount. To understand the change, look at the movements separately. Each contract has its own rules for calculating charges and applying payments.

Look separately at the balance, the charges and the payment.

CHECK THE IDEA · OPTIONAL NEW

You owed US$200. This month US$15 of interest was added and you paid US$40. How much did the debt go down?

US$25. · expected answer

If tapped: Yes. US$200 + US$15 − US$40 = US$175. You paid US$40, but the debt went down US$25.

US$40.

If tapped: That’s what you paid. US$15 of interest was added first, so the debt went down US$25.

Not sure, show me.

If tapped: First add the charge: 200 + 15 = 215. Then subtract the payment: 215 − 40 = 175. It was 200 before: it went down 25.

Optional and not scored. Only the tapped option’s reply is shown, and she can change option. “Not sure, show me” explains without marking a mistake. She can also carry on without answering.

DAY 4 / 7 · 3-4

I pay, but what’s going down?

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

Which question would help you most?

What charges were added?

If tapped: Look for the period’s charges and how they’re described. If one isn’t clear, that’s a question for whoever issues the statement.

How much did the balance really go down?

If tapped: Compare the previous and new balance, taking into account purchases, charges and payments in the same period.

I want to see a simple sum

If tapped: Open the optional example: it shows just one interest charge and one payment, with no other movements.

OPTIONAL NOTE

The line or question I want to clarify is…

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE AN EXAMPLE · OPTIONAL

Optional example: balance US$100 + interest US$10 − payment US$20 = US$90. You paid US$20, but the balance went down US$10. It’s a simplified sum; it doesn’t calculate the rate or the terms of your debt.

CHANGED

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

A concrete question to understand one movement.

Look separately at the balance, the charges and the payment.

If it helps, find one line on your next statement. You don’t need to solve the whole debt today.

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Tomorrow: Did your spending change, or the price?

DAY 5 / 7 · 1-2

Did your spending change, or the price?

Tell a price rise apart from a change in what you buy.

Yesterday you saw: Look separately at the balance, the charges and the payment.

1 / START WITH YOU

When you feel your money doesn’t stretch as far, what would you like to be able to tell apart?

I buy the same, but pay more

If tapped: Comparing the same product and quantity helps you see the price change, without blaming yourself first.

I don’t know if the price went up or I bought more

If tapped: Separating price per unit and quantity can clarify it. You don’t need to review all your shopping.

Prices change very fast where I live

If tapped: You can use a comparison date that makes sense where you live. We won’t use a rate as if it were your country’s.

Today I only want to understand the idea

If tapped: The main idea is purchasing power: how much you can buy with the same amount of money.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea without choosing a situation”.

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

If the same product and quantity cost more, the same money buys less. Inflation is a general rise in prices; one product doesn’t measure your country’s inflation. To compare a purchase, look at the price for the same quantity and the dates. A smaller pack can also change what you get for your money.

To compare prices, compare the quantity too.

CHECK THE IDEA · OPTIONAL NEW

Before, 1 kg of rice cost US$2. Now the pack holds 800 g and still costs US$2. What changed?

You pay the same for less: in practice, it went up. · expected answer

If tapped: Yes. Per kilo, you now pay US$2.50.

Nothing, because it costs the same.

If tapped: The pack costs the same, but holds 200 g less. Per kilo, the price went from US$2 to US$2.50.

Not sure, show me.

If tapped: Compare the same quantity: 1 kg cost US$2. Now 800 g cost US$2, so 1 kg would cost US$2.50.

Optional and not scored. Only the tapped option’s reply is shown, and she can change option. “Not sure, show me” explains without marking a mistake. She can also carry on without answering.

DAY 5 / 7 · 3-4

Did your spending change, or the price?

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

Which comparison would help you?

Pick something I buy often

If tapped: Think of one product. To compare it, use the same quantity, format and currency on two dates.

Check whether the pack size changed

If tapped: Look at how much it holds. Two equal prices can give different quantities; the price per unit helps you see it.

Understand how rises add up

If tapped: Open the optional example. Each new rise is calculated on the price that already changed.

OPTIONAL NOTE

I want to compare… The quantity and dates would be…

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE AN EXAMPLE · OPTIONAL

Optional example: a basket costs US$100. It rises 10% and reaches US$110. Another 10% rise adds US$11: it reaches US$121. It isn’t any country’s inflation; it only shows how percentages add up.

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

A concrete comparison, or today’s rule.

To compare prices, compare the quantity too.

If it helps, compare one product and its quantity. Seeing a rise doesn’t mean you have to buy less or invest today.

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Tomorrow: When a promise touches a need

DAY 6 / 7 · 1-2

When a promise touches a need

Prepare a pause and a check before sending money.

Yesterday you saw: To compare prices, compare the quantity too.

1 / START WITH YOU

What could make you trust a money offer before checking it?

Someone close recommends it

If tapped: You can trust that person and check the offer separately. A recommendation doesn’t verify who receives the money.

I need my money to stretch fast

If tapped: That need can make a promise attractive. It doesn’t oblige you to decide today or to risk money to try it.

They tell me the opportunity ends today

If tapped: Pressure cuts the time to check. You can prepare a reply that doesn’t commit money.

I already sent money and I’m worried

If tapped: You can leave the exercise. Contact your bank or payment service soon and look for official help in your country. You don’t need to share details here.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea and see which signs to look for, without having an offer”. CHANGED

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

There are three signs to stop: they promise high returns with little or no risk, they pressure you to pay now, or they reward you for bringing people in. Don’t send money as a security test. Find your country’s financial authority yourself. Check who they are, whether they’re authorised for that activity and how to contact them another way. A registered company can also be impersonated, and registration doesn’t guarantee returns. CHANGED

High returns, “no risk” and hurry: stop and check before sending money.

CHECK THE IDEA · OPTIONAL NEW

Someone writes: “Earn 15% every week, guaranteed. Only a few places left.” What do you do first?

Stop and check on my own before sending money. · expected answer

If tapped: Yes. A high return, “guaranteed” and hurry, together, are a sign to stop.

Send a little to try it.

If tapped: Sending a little doesn’t check anything. At first they may pay you something back so you trust them and send more.

Not sure, show me.

If tapped: Look for the three signs: a high return, “guaranteed” and “only a few places left”. That’s enough to stop and check before sending money.

Optional and not scored. Only the tapped option’s reply is shown, and she can change option. “Not sure, show me” explains without marking a mistake. She can also carry on without answering.

DAY 6 / 7 · 3-4

When a promise touches a need

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

What would you like to have to hand?

A phrase to buy time

If tapped: You can use: “I won’t send money before checking who receives it and how it works”.

A short checklist

If tapped: Find the official authority yourself; check identity and authorisation for the activity; use contact details found outside the message.

Guidance because I already sent money

If tapped: Contact the bank or service you used to pay and ask what options there are. Look for local official help; don’t send more money to supposedly release what you sent.

OPTIONAL NOTE

The phrase or check I want to remember is…

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE AN EXAMPLE · OPTIONAL

Optional example: “20% a month, no risk; send today and earn more if you bring friends”. You don’t need to calculate a return: spot the promise, the hurry and the recruiting. WhatsApp or crypto, on their own, don’t prove a scam.

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

A pause phrase or an independent check.

High returns, “no risk” and hurry: stop and check before sending money.

If an offer comes up again, use your pause before replying. There’s no need to look for one to practise.

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Tomorrow: What would be useful to find again?

DAY 7 / 7 · 1-2

What would be useful to find again?

Recover a useful idea and keep it to hand, without proving you changed.

Yesterday you saw: High returns, “no risk” and hurry: stop and check before sending money.

1 / START WITH YOU

Thinking about this week, what’s closest to what happened for you?

There’s an idea I want to keep

If tapped: You can choose it from the list. You don’t need to have put it into practice.

I understood something, but didn’t use it

If tapped: Understanding an idea and using it are different things. You can keep it without reporting a result.

I still have a question

If tapped: You can note what’s still unclear. Saving it doesn’t mean Elara has answered it.

I didn’t find something useful

If tapped: You don’t have to choose a rule to finish. If you like, you can say what you hoped to find.

Also: “I’d rather skip”. Reply: “You can carry on with today’s idea without choosing a situation”.

2 / AN IDEA THAT HELPS · READ OR LISTEN

This week we looked at six ideas: dates, purpose, helping, debts, prices and offers. You don’t need to have saved or changed anything. You can keep an idea, leave a question or finish without saving anything.

CHANGED

Choose an idea that helps you, or finish without saving.

No extra check: step 3 already asks her to recall without looking at the list.

DAY 7 / 7 · 3-4

What would be useful to find again?

3 / MAKE IT YOURS

Without opening the list, what comes to mind?

A date or a question I want to confirm

If tapped: If the payment is due before the pay arrives, that income isn’t available for that due date yet. You can recover day 1’s question.

A phrase that could give me time

If tapped: You can want to help and check your payments before committing an amount. You can recover or write a phrase from day 3.

I’d rather see the week’s rules

If tapped: Open the list below. You can choose one, write your own or choose none.

OPTIONAL NOTE

My idea, my phrase or what I still want to understand…

She can edit it or leave it blank. She can also tap “I’d rather skip”: “You can finish with today’s idea without writing anything”.

SEE THE RULES

After trying to remember, you can choose a rule from the list, write your own or finish without choosing.

1. Before counting future money, confirm when it arrives.
2. Money for a payment coming up shouldn’t depend on an investment going up.
3. You can want to help and take time to see what you can take on.
4. Look separately at the balance, the charges and the payment.
5. To compare prices, compare the quantity too.
6. High returns, “no risk” and hurry: stop and check before sending money.

4 / YOU TAKE AWAY

One rule, a confirmed phrase or an open question. You can also save nothing.

Choose an idea that helps you, or finish without saving.

If it helps, keep what you chose where you can find it again. Thank you for giving yourself this time this week. There’s no other task to complete. CHANGED

Actions: “Choose what to save” / “Finish without saving”. The selection offers the rule and, only if it exists, her note or confirmed sentence. “Save selection” is enabled once at least one item is chosen. On failure: “Couldn’t save. Try again”. On success: “Saved in Your days”. Without saving: “You finished for today without saving anything. You can go back to the explanation”.

Review and build notes

STATUS AND SCOPE

V4.1 corrects V4 after a text review. It is still a draft: it doesn't imply María's approval, proven effectiveness or content loaded in the app. It keeps six topics and a close; day 5 prioritises a price comparison and keeps percentages as an optional example.

INTERACTION AND CONTINUITY

Every option has a fixed reply. Titles, teaching and the close must be kept in Ventana. "Yesterday you saw" is an editorial recap of the previous day, not a claim that she completed or remembers it; hide it when it doesn't apply. On the Atlas home, "Yesterday you saved" appears only if she saved something. Day 7 offers recall with no note or grade, then the full bank of rules.

OPTIONAL CHECK (NEW)

Days 1 to 6: one question after the idea, with three options and fixed replies; one is "Not sure, show me". No score, nothing blocked, and the result isn't saved. She can change option or carry on without answering. Numbers are small and the sum is always in the reply.

OPEN QUESTIONS AND SKIPS

On any day: "I have another question" opens a separate optional field. Fixed reply: "You can leave it as pending. This session doesn't treat it as answered". Only say "saved" after confirming a non-empty note and completing the save. If she skips an activity, let her carry on to the teaching or the close without attributing a choice to her.

SAVING AND PRIVACY

Choosing a suggested phrase requires confirmation. Don't generate a card with empty text, or claim savings, confidence or behaviour change. Notes are never published automatically; any sharing must show the selection, destination and confirmation separately. Don't promise that nobody on the team can read them without checking the actual policy and access. Don't ask for statements, names, account numbers or screenshots.

SUPPORT AND SAFETY (NEW)

Day 3: the line about pressure or control over money is new; María decides whether it stays. Day 6: "official help in your country" stays generic. Before naming organisations, verify a list per country against official sources; don't write unverified names.

WHAT TO CHECK IN THE APP

The code wasn't checked in this rewrite. Map the four moments to real steps, the separate fields, the branches, the optional check, the expandable examples, the return to Your days and the save/error states. If there's no audio, hide play. No promise of week 2 and no access still to be confirmed.

QUESTIONS FOR MARÍA AND THE PARTICIPANTS

Which part felt like it was about you? What did you learn that you didn't know before? Did the check help, or did it feel like a test? Which phrase or question did you leave with? Which example did you need and which was too much? The next day: do you remember an idea? Accept "none"; don't suggest the answer. Check «alquiler/arriendo», «luz/servicios», «respaldo/colchón» and real duration.
