One room, one paper: Ten More's voice, Quiet Table's calm

Same flows as today and the same Spanish strings from the repo. The authored paper world stays: ivory ground, a peach question sheet, a terracotta date stamp, the shelf as a dated record. What goes is clutter: tabs, counts, names and initials. Nobody is identifiable around a reflection; presence is shown with plain tinted dots.

1 · Inicio de Círculos

The question is the page. One peach sheet carries the stamp, the question and the single action; the room is one quiet row beneath it. No feed, no badges, no counts.

2 · Dentro del círculo

The peach sheet and serif question from Ten More, with the metadata cut to one line. The room's tabs, names and counts are gone; the shelf is one link away. Seguridad y ayuda (♡) stays in the header.

3 · Compositor

No chrome around the writing. Para: este Círculo sits under the title, with three neutral dots, so she knows where it goes before she types. The repo's own sentence stays below as the exact promise.

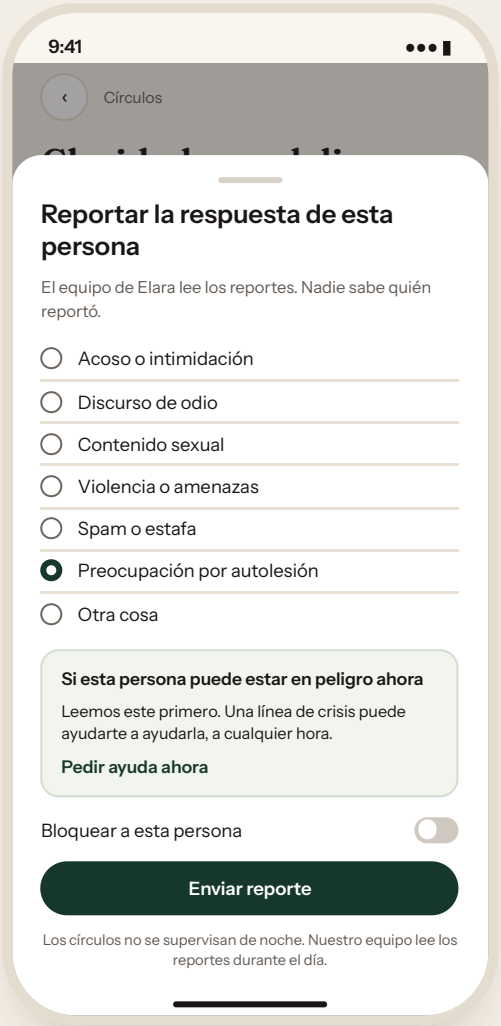

The shelf keeps the record; the report stays plain

The shelf uses the same stamp, serif and paper as the question sheet, so past and present read as one record. The report sheet drops the stationery on purpose: no stamp, no tint, no serif, so it reads as a calm utility.

4 · El estante

A dated record: month rule, serif date numeral, one question, one status. Her own answers are marked with a forest line. No names, no recap tags, no counts.

5 · Reportar y seguridad

White sheet, sans-serif, standard radio rows and one clear help panel above the send button. The 24-hour promise is not shown: it stays unverified until the staffed drill passes.

ONE SYSTEM

Ivory ground	Question sheet	Reflection paper	Ink	Forest

Stamp, once
#C94A1C

Same pieces, three screens

Stamp: terracotta outline, 3°, only on the question sheet and the shelf header.

Serif: Fraunces for questions and reflections, Instrument Sans for everything operational.

Dots: four tinted circles say "others are here" without a number or a person.

Hairline: one #E8E0D5 rule separates every list, in the room, the shelf and the report.

TEXTO GRANDE · 320 PT

The stamp is dropped from the sheet at this size and moves to the line above the question. Everything stacks; no text is clipped. To confirm on a device.

RESUMEN

What stays, what goes, and the first slice

Kept from Ten More

- The peach question sheet with Elara's serif question as the centre of both home and the room.
- The restrained terracotta date stamp, now on the question and the shelf header only.
- The shelf as a chronology: month rules, serif date numerals, “Tu respuesta” marked in forest. It still ends in a finite record.
- The ivory ground and authored voice (“Sobre la mesa”, “Del estante”, “Cada círculo guarda su propio estante”).
- The room's own audience copy, in the repo's words.

Simplified from Quiet Table

- One action per screen. Home has one button, the room has one, the composer has one.
- No monograms or initials, and no oval table drawing. Presence is four tinted dots with no count.
- Metadata cut to one line. Pinned tabs, answer counts, “aquí desde” lines and status text are gone from the room.
- A cleaner composer: one audience line, one writing area, the repo's sentence, one button.
- A plain report sheet, with none of the paper language.

STRINGS

All copy is from `es/circle.ts`, `es/rooms.ts` and `es/common.ts`, except: Para: este Círculo (your proposed line), “Han respondido.” (trimmed from han respondido.), the room name and the shelf questions (examples), and the shelf banner “Lo que este círculo ha guardado” (new, needs a decision).

Smallest beta slice

- 1 · Composer audience line. Add Para: este Círculo above the draft and keep `composer.note` below it. One string and one row, with no layout or behaviour change.
- 2 · Reflection card. A style-only change in `components/circles/tokens.ts` and the answer card: white paper, hairline border, serif text, and the author line “Alguien del círculo”.
- 3 · Question sheet. Drop the room tabs and counts from the sheet's header, and keep the stamp, the question and one button.

NOT IN THE SLICE

- The shelf restyle and the report sheet, which need their own review.
- Any new strings beyond the audience line.
- Any change to room logic or data.
